A consumer organization boycotting the recording industry

Join us by not patronizing the recording industry.

Let CDs gather dust on the shelves!

Our Message:

Attention, recording industry! We have been your customers, but you forgot that the customer is always right. Now, we are boycotting you. You forgot that our patronage is a privilege you must earn, not a debt we owe. You must clean up your act, or you will never see another cent of our money. Our numbers are growing every day.

When we buy a CD, it becomes our personal property. We have the right to listen to music with the device we choose. It is none of the industry's business if that is a computer or a personal MP3 player. We have the right to make custom mixes of our favorite songs. We have the right to share our music with our friends. A sale was made. The industry's rights over our property ended at that time. Any form of copy control or digital rights management (DRM) violates our rights.

File trading networks are the new radio. This is how we discover new music. Old radio and MTV dropped the ball. Napster picked it up. This free form of promotion is a gift to artists and fans. Bullying us with lawsuits won't win our patronage. Flooding networks with bogus song files, viruses and worms won't win our patronage.
